SITE NEAR OLIVER LIKELY CHOICE FOR SECOND LARGEST TELESCOPE

VICTORIA (CP) — A provincial cabinet order has sharply increased the likelihood of a second largest telescope being sited near Oliver, B.C., will be one of the world's second-largest telescopes.

The order, announced Friday, gave a tentative approval to the site near Oliver, B.C., which is being developed by the University of British Columbia.

Provincial officials said they considered the site has already been decided on by the federal government as the site for the $100,000 Queen Elizabeth II observatory and its 100-inch telescope. Request for the reserve had come from Oliver.

The Minister of Provincial Development, Mr. J. A. McPherson, said the site is being developed for the observatory as a gift to the province, pending the recent visit to Canada by the Queen.

The Oliver site is near an existing radio telescope at Pelee Island. The two would provide a major centre for astronomical research in Western Canada.

Strong Central Government Vital For Canada Says Dief

EDMONTON (C.P.)—Canada will allow provinces to invade requires a strong central government if it is to remain a single nation and the present federal administration has given up much of its power to the provinces, Opposition leader Diefenbaker said today.

Mr. Diefenbaker told a 10th anniversary banquet of the Macdonald-Carter Club that Canada now is becoming a land of two nations.

"This is a situation we cannot accept if we are to preserve Confederation," he said.

"We could have two nations, one for the English and one for the French, but we cannot have a third nation, one for the Indians and one for the rest of us."

"The challenge of Canada in 1964 is to have one nation, one Canada where citizenship is equal. That's the Conservative viewpoint."

Mr. Diefenbaker criticized the failure of the prime minister and federal cabinet members to lay the proper foundation for the recent visit by the Queen.

"They did not say one word about the meaning of monarchy which were not in keeping with the kind of treatment which the Queen should have had."

Mr. Diefenbaker said that the federal government had done nothing to help the provinces and that the federal government had given up much of its power to the provinces.

Last-Ditch Fight Fails To Halt CN Run-Throughs

OTTAWA (C.P.)—Opposition members led by an angry Doug Young were unsuccessful today in a last-ditch attempt to force the CN run-through program to a two-day halt.

The program is to go into effect this weekend at Nepean, Ont., in Mr. Fisher's Port Arthur riding and at Wainwright, Alta.

The busy NDP member threatened the death of Nepean if the run-through program was not halted.

A CN spokesman said Friday the company plans to go ahead with the program for run-throughs on freight operations as scheduled.

Transport Minister George Meints told the Commons he had no plans to interfere with the decision.

There have been reports some rail men might stop work in protest, but the company spokesman said no official word of any stoppage has been received.

The run-throughs may mean longer working hours, force employees at terminal points to move their homes, and affect the communities economically.

They mean train crews continue past the point where they previously were relieved.

Mr. Fisher, backed by Conservatives and fellow NDP members, kept the debate and criticism of the publicly-owned railway running most of the day.

For an hour during the question period and again through out an interim supply debate.

Mr. Fisher contended the railway's action in "wiping out" a home terminal was probably illegal and said he was prepared to counter with another possible legal action.

He may be persuaded, and so may these men for refusing to offer services Saturday night, he said. "It may be that a strike is being contemplated under the Criminal Code."

But this is the situation being suffered by employees who are brought to the attention of a constructive approach by management to grave situations such as this.

Mr. McRae defended the CN's decision, saying it was for the company's sake to handle and looked out at Mr. Fisher for his threat.

"Surely this is not the kind of example that should be given to employees... or the citizens of a country generally."

He said the NDP member apparently was unwilling to use legal methods at his disposal. The CN had made responsible offers to buy homes from workers who must move and arrangements concerning moving expenses, he said. It had invited workers generally to help in implementing the program but none had been received except the request for a delay.

David Oriskany (NDP—Winnipeg North) said Mr. McRae was typical of the "run-through" liberals who are responsible for the trouble arising. He warned that if the government insisted on ignoring the plight of employees, it will be a long time before the legislation to streamline railway operations will pass through the Commons.

Mr. Oriskany said future plans for railways should be prepared for a five- or 10-year period so everyone affected will know what to expect. The Ontario government had spent hundreds of thousands of dollars building a new highway to Nepean and which ends only when the opportunity comes to take it to be resumed Monday.

The government is asking $747,974 to cover day-to-day spending for November and December pending approval of spending estimates for all departments.

Wilson Has Battle Plan Set For Form Of Import Controls

LONDON (C.P.)—Prime Minister Harold Wilson is reported to have approved an emergency scheme to include import restrictions—such as imposed by Canada during its 1962 currency crisis—foreign trade and there is speculation that the scheme, if approved Monday, may include some form of import controls.

Canadian authorities today expressed some private misgivings about the possible impact of the Wilson plan on Canadian exporters. However, they emphasized that most Canadian exports to Britain are of an essential nature, such as grain, metals, minerals, machinery, and textiles, and likely will not be affected by any restrictive action.

Canada last year shipped about $1,000,000,000 worth of goods to Britain and officials estimated this year's total may rise to 20 per cent to about $2,000,000,000.

Britain's big trouble is that it has been buying a lot more than it has been selling, covering its trade deficit with foreign borrowing to prevent a speculative run against the pound. It is that Wilson's emergency measures will include heavier borrowings from the International Monetary Fund.

Many White South Africans Held In Prison Without Trial

JOHANNESBURG (AP)—Hundreds of South African whites and non-whites have spent months in jail without even being charged or brought to trial, the National Union of South African Students reports.

This organization, open to members of all races, says about 80 persons have been held in the last 14 months under a special provision of the country's security laws which permits police to hold suspects for up to 90 days at a time.

During detention they are questioned regarding alleged subversion, Communist activities and sabotage.

Many detainees have been held in solitary confinement without access to lawyers or friends. Many of them had only the Bible for reading matter.

At least 60 of the total detained were held for more than 90 days. Eight of whom three were women, were held more than 180 days, the report shows.

About 400 were subsequently charged in court, more than 300 were released without being charged and about 50 have given evidence for the state in court cases.

The report says 40 detainees have complained of assaults by policemen or wardens.

The Johannesburg Sunday Times has published extracts from affidavits sworn by three former detainees who alleged they had been made to stand in one spot while being ceaselessly interrogated for periods ranging from 40 to almost 70 hours.

Two detainees died by hanging in their cells and another jumped to his death from a seventh-floor window of Johannesburg's security police headquarters where he was being interrogated.

At least 40 teenagers were among those held. Two women were pregnant during their period of detention. The student organization says the estimated number still held is more than 70.

Justice Minister Balthazar Vorster has said the 90-day clause will go as soon as the government decides there is no longer need for it.

Teenage Mob Battles Police

NEW YORK (AP)—More than 400 teen-agers battling among themselves in two separate outbreaks of violence Friday night that terrified bystanders in subway stations and on the streets of Harlem and Brooklyn.

Twenty-two youths were arrested in Harlem and 15 in Brooklyn before the brief, pitched battles were broken up by police.

At least four persons were injured in the Brooklyn outbreak when Negro and white students of the same high school armed themselves with car aerials, baseball bats, can openers and other weapons to settle an inter-racial dispute

"Only One" No Excuse In Avoiding Responsibility

Every person at times feels a sense of frustration when he considers his own little place in the great scheme of things.

He raises an honest doubt as to whether he really does count in this vast world of persons, atoms, bombs, and deep need. He sees the needs of the world but turns aside with a sigh and the words, "But I'm only one person." And to say, because I am only one person there is nothing I can do.

What has our abundance done to us besides keeping us so well-fed, well-housed, and well-entertained? Has it depersonalized us so we are interested only in the material values that bring this abundance and we stand on any backs or shoulders that will help us in our climb toward personal affluence?

Living in the age of atomic energy has forced some to dwarf their concept of personality. Automation threatens further to rob man of his personal identity.

These are but danger signs on the road toward the loss of personal identity in our mass-minded society. Whenever there comes a depersonalization in the values which society accepts there comes also a corresponding decline in personal responsibility.

When I am convinced that my life counts for very little in the scheme of things, then I will find it very difficult to accept any deep sense of personal responsibility for helping frame the setting for that scheme of things in the vast world where I live.

I am very pleased to notice an increased personal awareness on the part of many people in our community of the needs that are prevalent here. There has been an increased interest regarding the ever vexing problem of chronic unemployment on television.

However, an awareness of this problem will not in itself be sufficient to make any marked change in our city. There must be an active interest that will place our personal influence on the line for that which is right and lawful.

The Kelowna and District Ministerial Association is taking an active role in an attempt to rid our community of illegal obscenity. This body of men, as well as organizations that are interested in this problem, need the active participation of the members of our community. Some persons may say, "But I'm only one person!" BUT YOU ARE ONE.

I am only one.
But still I am one.
I cannot do everything.
But still I can do something.
And even if I cannot do everything,
I will not refuse to do the something.

RR Mileage Abandonment

Canada's leading weekly of business and public affairs, The Financial Post, scooped the national press with a leading of the 87 railway lines likely to be abandoned by the railroads have their way. Here is what The Post had to say editorially about the plan.

Canada's railways have to compete against jet planes, trailer transports and pipelines—but they are shackled by government restrictions dating back to the day of the horse and wagon. That's literally the case with the 7,797 miles of branch lines which the railways want to abandon. These lines made sense—and sometimes made money—50 years ago. Most make neither sense nor money today. But government rules, supported by horse-and-buggy thinking in some rural areas, still force the railways to maintain them.

Practically all (3,507 miles) of the branch-line mileage the railroads want to abandon is in the three prairie provinces. These were built when farmers hauled grain to the railway by horse-drawn wagons over poor roads. Branch lines had to be as close as possible to as many farmers as possible. That, however, is all changed. Most Western farmers today haul their grain in trucks over paved highways open all year. They can travel 100 miles far more easily than they used to travel 10.

Where branch-line abandonment causes real hardship, the legislation allows state-by-state postponement up to 15 years. In many cases, abandonment won't cause even minor inconvenience, for the line has already been abandoned by the grain-growers themselves. There will be a few special cases where uneconomic branch lines have to be maintained. But most of them can be removed in an orderly consolidation for greater economy and, in the end, better service. Western Canada has the same stake in a rational, efficient railway system as the nation itself.

Dilemma In Morals

The scientist, not the philosopher, The Financial Post points out, is the man who today poses the great moral questions of mankind. His development of the nuclear bomb has raised problems of international ethics which are still to be put to the test by humanity. Now the scientist is about to present us with another, perhaps more perplexing, dilemma in morals. The Post reports that according to Dr. Bentley Glass of Johns Hopkins University an "artificial" human embryo will be achieved before the year 2000. In Italy a human ovum or egg fertilized by a sperm was kept alive under test tube conditions "for a short time."

Has the scientist the right to produce human life in a test tube? Should he experiment with this kind of human life? These considerations sound like the problems of science fiction at the moment, but, if we are to believe Dr. Glass, it won't be long before society must face up to them. It is not too soon for both scientists and our laymen thinkers to consider them. A new revolution in religious and legal thinking will be the price of our new knowledge.

Smethwick's Election Result Subject For Long Discussion

LONDON (C.P.)—When all the other politicians on the British election scene have finished their election campaigns, the result in Smethwick will be a subject for long discussion and analysis.

Mr. Peter Griffiths, of the Conservative Party, won the seat in Smethwick in the 1959 election. He was defeated by Mr. John Griffiths, of the Labour Party, in the 1963 election. The result in Smethwick was a surprise, as the Conservative Party had been expected to win the seat.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Tumor Problem Under Study

By JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.

Could you explain fibroid tumors? I need to know about them—MRS. M.Z.

Your letter reminds me that I haven't discussed fibroid tumors (also just called leiomyomas) for some time. Yet they are a problem with which a great number of women are concerned.

A tumor is a growth that results when cells multiply faster than is necessary to maintain a part of the body at normal size. The extra cells create a lump.

If, for reasons the medical profession is still trying to understand, this process of extra cells continues, and finally spreads to other areas, then we have cancer, or a malignant tumor.

But there are far more ordinary or benign tumors than malignant or cancerous ones.

Tumors can occur in various types of tissue. We may have lipomas, or fatty tumors, just below the skin. These are common, and are benign. Or we have tumors in other types of tissue—and again, many are benign and some are malignant.

If a tumor develops in fibrous tissue, we call it a fibroid tumor. The uterus for women is made up of fibrous and muscle tissue. Some other parts of the body consist of fibrous tissue, but the uterus is the one which, for various good reasons, is quite subject to these tumors.

Approximately one woman out of every three will have one or more fibroid tumors of the uterus. Many never know it. Some know it but are not bothered. And some are bothered and should have these tumors removed.

Removal depends on whether the fibroids are doing any harm. Thousands of women have been told by their doctors, "You have a fibroid tumor. You don't worry about it. We'll just watch it."

Wise women accept this advice; others believe their doctors, and start to worry. Yet truthfully, these tumors rarely become malignant. (If they do, they should be removed at once.) And there is reason to think that if one of them is to "become malignant," it really is so from the start.

With women of child-bearing age, occasionally such tumors prevent pregnancy, and it may be best to remove them without disturbing the uterus.

With other women, these tumors may gradually subside at menopause. Or, at an age at which pregnancy is unlikely anyway, the uterus may be removed (hysterectomy).

A great many children have been born to women with one or more fibroids, and there are cases of several fibroids in a single individual.

Thus the "answer" to fibroids depends on the individual. Your doctor must make the decision. In one case he will say, "We should operate right away." In most he will say, "Let's wait and watch." In the majority of these, no serious trouble will ever develop.

NOTE TO MRS. W. No, a baby's blood type is NOT always the same as that of the father. It is determined by the combined factors of the blood types of BOTH parents.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a relative who can't drink more than two bottles of beer or two highballs without appearing drunk or doped. I feel certain he doesn't use drugs, however, he dips snuff and I wonder if it has the power to change a person as quickly?—M.S.

Snuff is a form of powdered tobacco, and I strongly doubt that it has anything to do with this case. Why look for a difficult answer when a simple one is available? He's just a man who cannot tolerate alcohol! (Could he, on occasion, have more than he lets you know?)

In defeat Griffiths Walker observed that Griffiths would be the "loneliest man in Westminster."

There are signs, however, that Griffiths still has lots of friends. One of the most eminent of them is Kenneth Powell, former Tory health minister and a man famed for his stern high principles.

In a newspaper article Powell argued that it is not racial prejudice to state that the color problem of the immigrant already here can only be solved if substantial further immigration is prevented.

"Conservatives will have only themselves to blame if they acquiesce in a false belief placed on issues that are alive and real to millions."

This is a selection of editorials on current topics, translated from the French-language press of Canada.

Quebec L'Action — Premier Lesage has reason to be satisfied that the Gordian knot of constitutional amendment has at last been cut. On the one hand, the essential rights of French Canada and the State of Quebec have received a new confirmation. On the other, the Canadian constitution remains what it has always been—a charter simple enough to adapt itself to change.

Thus Ottawa has come around to the point of view expressed by Mr. Lesage in 1960 and has considerably reduced the freedom it gave itself in 1919 to amend the constitution on its own initiative in matters which it felt were under its jurisdiction.

The other conference which was held simultaneously at Ottawa was an equal success. For the first time Ottawa and the provincial states are to undertake parallel planning of fiscal sources and long-term economic objectives, that is for the period from 1967 to 1972.

People in a hurry will be scandalized no doubt that the results of today's financial and economic work will not appear until 1968 or 1972 in the slow way that the Canadians of 30 years ago were impatient because of a constitution they were not able to bring back from London until now.

Time does its work in peace. Speeding up history is only a pretext for violence and misfortune. — Lorenzo Farr, (Oct. 16)

Montreal Le Devoir — The constitutional agreement reached in Ottawa represents an important gain for the Canadian idea. . . . But certain reservations must be made.

The Ottawa agreement seems to have been reached in a spirit which corresponds more to Quebec's exigencies of 10 years ago than to Quebec needs in 1964.

Until 1960, if we are not mistaken, Quebec insisted that all changes affecting the essence of the British North America Act had to be agreed upon unanimously. Quebec saw in this rule the guarantee of the "inviolable" rights given it by the constitution. This was in an era when the federal government held the initiative and invaded provincial domains from all sides. Insistence upon unanimity was the only means of defence Quebec had.

Was it opportune to insist so much on the rule of unanimity in 1964, at a time when Quebec has regained the initiative and is making ready to propose important constitutional modifications to the rest of the country?

It may be doubted. One is filled with fear by the thought that, in a few years, amendments judged necessary by Quebec . . . could be made impossible by the veto of a province which does not represent even five per cent of the Canadian population. . . . The Ottawa agreement is a vote of confidence in the political maturity of Canadians. But it is only a first step whose main effect may be to hasten the great confrontation to which we must come sooner or later.

The agreement makes certain elements of constitutional mechanism more supple. On the other hand, it risks freezing essential sections of the constitution. It does not satisfactorily settle the question of attribution of "provinces" which are sure to crop up. Nor does it deal with many outmoded articles of the constitution.

Rutland Meets Top Hybridist

By ART GRAY
PART II

When John Rutland, with his wife and little daughter, set out for California that day in May 1905 he did not have in mind just to relax in the sunny south and take a holiday.

When he left Australia he brought with him a letter of introduction to Father Rutland, the famous hybridist at Selkirk, near Santa Rosa, B.C. Rutland was conducting his remarkable experiments with flowers and vegetables, producing new and amazing varieties.

Here Rutland met Rutland and was given the opportunity to see and study his methods. Rutland named one of his hybrid fruits the "Rutland" Plumcot, a cross between an apricot and a plum. Rutland was experimenting with various types of fruit, and Rutland was to provide further information on his areas and provide further information on his areas and provide further information on his areas.

There Rutland saw just what he needed for his trip. Rutland was the native land where he left for Australia. He took with him a letter of introduction to Father Rutland, the famous hybridist at Selkirk, near Santa Rosa, B.C. ## $4 Billion In "Risk Capital" Needed For North's Growth

EDMONTON, CP — About $4 billion in "risk capital" will be required to develop Canada's vast northern resources, says a report by the Northern Development Commission. The report, which was presented to the federal government last week, says that the northern regions of Canada have a potential for growth of $4 billion in "risk capital" over the next 10 years. The report also says that the northern regions have a potential for growth of $4 billion in "risk capital" over the next 10 years.

Most people agreed that the northern regions of Canada have a potential for growth of $4 billion in "risk capital" over the next 10 years. The report also says that the northern regions have a potential for growth of $4 billion in "risk capital" over the next 10 years.

Department "Works Hardship" On Veterans Claim Members

OTTAWA, CP — The veterans' department has been accused by several Conservative members of working a "hardship on veterans through a 'benefit of the doubt' clause in disability pension and allowances applications." The report also says that the northern regions have a potential for growth of $4 billion in "risk capital" over the next 10 years.

A. M. McLean (L-Charlottetown) said the provision should be eliminated. "If a good, honest veteran makes an affidavit his word should be accepted," Mr. McLean said.

The complaints came as the Commons considered the department's $330,792,000 worth of spending estimates for the present fiscal year. The estimates were passed just before the night adjournment.

Opening of Friday's sitting marked a new record for the number of sittings in a single session—175 days. The previous record of 174 was set during the 1960-61 session.

There'll Always Be A Springhill Said Mayor And He Was Right

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (CP) — "There will always be a Springhill," the late mayor Ralph Gilroy said Oct. 23, 1958, when this Cumberland County coal-mining town was stricken by its third major disaster in two years—a cave-in in No. 2 colliery that took the lives of 75 miners.

Today, six years later, this prediction has proven accurate. The town seems well on the way to recovery with new industry and the recent announcement that an early start will be made on construction of a new $8,000,000 federal medium-security penal institution.

It was a "black Thursday" for Springhill in 1958 when an underground upheaval, locally called a "bump," trapped 174 miners. Eighty-one crawled out during the first 24 hours, 12 more rescued after being entombed six days and six more freed after eight days.

The first of the three disasters came Thursday, Nov. 1, 1956, when an explosion in No. 4 mine caught 127 miners underground. Only 88 were rescued alive and the mine was sealed permanently. It was a "Thursday" again in 1957 when a $1,500,000 boxing day fire swept the town's main street, wiping out nearly a dozen business establishments.

The 1958 tragedy ended the

Cumberland Railway and Coal Company's mining operations in Springhill. The closure of No. 2 mine threw 900 men out of work.

BOASTS NEW BUILDINGS

Today the town has a modern new hospital. A new federal building replaces the old post office whose walls were cracked by a previous "bump."

A new mine is operating, employing about 100 men. New industries include a woodworking plant and a battery factory. There's a new vocational high school and a minimum-security correctional institution that occupies the old mining site.

New stores and other buildings have been erected in the gaps the fire opened on main street. Many private dwellings have taken on a new look.

The population drain has eased. There were 7,400 persons living here in 1956. That total dropped by nearly 2,000 as families moved away in search of employment in the following years.

NEW JAIL PLANNED

EDMONTON, CP — The Alberta government said Wednesday it will build a new provincial jail near Peace River. The building is expected to be ready for occupancy next fall.

50th Anniversary RUTLAND ELEMENTARY SCHOOL

Besides being the anniversary observance, the day will also mark the official opening of the new activity room, just completed. C. D. Buckland, chairman of the board of School District No. 23 will officiate at the opening.

During the afternoon there will be open house from 2 to 4 p.m. for former staff and pupils and then the ceremonies will begin at 8 p.m. A large number of former teachers and students have written accepting invitations to the ceremonies. "Others" who are not able to come, have written some very interesting letters about the things they have done since they left Rutland. All these letters, with the photographs they sent, will be on display in the new activity room. Also on display will be old and new textbooks, and old documents.

Mrs. A. H. Sovereign and Mrs. H. C. Debeck, both of Vernon, will be on hand, too. Their father, the Hon. Price Ellison, opened the school 50 years ago. Mrs. Charles Robertson, of Clinton, daughter of the late R. Warden, will also be a platform guest. Mr. Warden was principal when Rutland elementary first opened in 1914.

Plan to attend and help us to celebrate our 50th Anniversary.

Canadian Dollar Stays Pegged Despite Revaluation Pressure

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian dollar will remain pegged to the U.S. dollar at 92.5 cents in United States gold, despite pressure for revaluation, says A. F. W. Plummer, director of the international department of the Bank of Canada. He said the bank has always and will continue to exercise a "control function" in the monetary policy, and it can't let the dollar float.

Addressing the National Institute of Management's annual conference here, Plummer said the bank is maintaining a "satisfactory" position in the international monetary system, and he said the government is "willing to forego the advantages" of a floating dollar.

The government is encouraging exporters to "diversify" and "expand" their markets, and is providing financial assistance for both domestic and foreign expansion.

George H. H. Ross, vice-president of the National Institute of Management, said the bank's decision to keep the dollar pegged is "a wise move" in the current economic situation.

He said the bank's decision is "a wise move" in the current economic situation, and he said the bank's decision is "a wise move" in the current economic situation.

He said jobs were available in the manufacturing sector, and he said the bank's decision is "a wise move" in the current economic situation.

CURLING NEWS

The final games of the Kelowna Curling Club's opening tournament were held on Friday evening at 7 p.m.

The winner of the "A" Event was the team headed by Doug Rogers, who defeated the team of the "B" Event, Bob Harris and the club beat the team headed by Doug Rogers.

Mixed curling gets underway on Sunday at 3 p.m. There is still lots of time available for anyone wishing to enter a rink.

Saturday night the club holds open house and anyone wishing to curl or just watch the games is welcome at the club.

At Seattle, Charlie Burns scored on a penalty shot and Wayne Connolly hit one of the hardest way to give San Francisco a 2-0 edge in the first period.

Bill Duggan and Gerry Bissett tied up the game in the second. Larry Zeidel completed Seattle scoring while Larry Duggan and Ed Panagabko rounded out the scoring for San Francisco in the third.

Tonight's action will see San Francisco at Portland, Los Angeles at Seattle and Vancouver at Victoria.

New NHL Rule Taking Effect

By THE CANADIAN PRESS — The National Hockey League's new rule banning faceoff interference seems to be having the desired effect.

The rule, which prohibits faceoff participants from hindering each other unless they're attempting to play the puck, was called seven times during the first seven games this season. But in the five succeeding games to date, the new law hasn't been touched.

The rule was established this season according to NHL president Clarence Campbell.

It reads like this: "No player facing off shall make any physical contact with his opponent's body by means of his own body or by his stick except in the course of playing the puck after the faceoff has been completed."

Of the seven infractions called on Toronto has been the victim three times, New York twice and Boston and Chicago once each. Coach Punch Imlach of the Maple Leafs has been a loud critic of the rule.

Imlach says the rule is not being called correctly and is being applied improperly, but he goes no further. Campbell explained Friday: "We are tightening up on interference after the faceoff by the same players who were in the faceoff."

The Washington Post said it has learned the rule will stay in Baltimore.

The franchise was purchased from a group of about 15 Chicago and Minneapolis business men.

Complaints are the result of confusion over the new rule and the long-standing rule applying to general interference, he says. Even the referees may be confused.

Campbell said that referees may have called the wrong penalty in three of the seven faceoff interference calls. Penalties for the usual interference infractions should have been called.

Enhancement and interpretation of rules were discussed by league and team officials in August. Campbell says it will take at least 10 games to assess the changes.
